It is pretty amazing. And the environment has great guys like you on its side!

BTW, I mentioned ND's temperature issue on a call with EPA's Office of Water on Monday. They've assigned a lead to work on temperature criteria issues and were checking with all the regions on states that may have issues meeting temperature criteria. Not sure what will come about from the effort but will keep you posted.

It has been successful. No more rivers catch fire and nearly all waters are swimmable and fishable.

That's quite an ambitious objective for a chapter!

I been polishing my knowledge on the clean water act.

They sure knew how to write back then: "The objective of this chapter is to restore and maintain the chemical, physical, and biological integrity of the Nation's waters."

Ok - thanks Pete. I'll follow-up with Judy to see what next steps are.

That's odd. I'll figure out what's up and will let you know.
